

Craig Bayer received two undergraduate degrees from Loyola University of New Orleans. In 2002 Craig started working at a Baton Rouge law firm where he worked his way up to the "IT Guy". Two years later he purchased a legal consulting company in Covington and moved it to Baton Rouge. Law Office Technology consults with firms in Louisiana and Mississippi as well as all over the country. Since that time Craig has split his residency between New Orleans and Baton Rouge which allows him to better serve clients and keep a good handle on the Saints and the Tigers.

Craig is certified in Amicus Attorney and Worldox and is a LexisNexis CIC (Certified Independent Consultant) in TimeMatters, PCLaw and HotDocs.
